

THE GREAT DEBATE: BOOKS VS. E-READERS

Increased absorption

Students of all ages, from elementary school to college, tend to absorb more when they are reading from paper than from screens, particularly when it comes to nonfiction material.

Better comprehension

When reading ebooks, readers are more likely to skim texts, which can lead to lower retention.

When using textbooks, readers often associate information with the layout of the page and location within the book, which assists them in comprehending texts.

Preferred by students

72% of college students preferred traditional textbooks to electronic text for these reasons:

1

Ease of reading

2

Cost

3

Ability to physically highlight

4

Reduced eye strain

5

Freedom from Internet access
